

What Our Players Say

The whole experience, every little hint and detail, was intriguing and fun, and stayed in my mind for months afterward. Great adventure and the mystique that you've managed to keep around it is a tiny little bit of mystery that everyone craves in today's secular and scientific world.

- SULLIVAN

You allowed me to experience a story in which I could take part and simultaneously observe. I cannot truly say how wonderful I think this medium of storytelling is. I hope for a future full of such augmented reality games, where fact and fiction in relationship to space become blurred and stories of magic and transcendence can be fully embraced. I am ever on the lookout for another experience like this, and have a light melancholy because I doubt there is one.

- CORBIN

My favorite thing I have ever done.

- JAKE

The entire experience was a wonderfully eye-opening creative gift.

- CAROLEE

This needs to be expanded. More cities, more places. It's amazing.

- JIM

This has been THE most well put together experience I have ever had. It's unbelievably well developed and smart, and worthwhile.

- RAY

The best part of this experience has been the (re-)discovery of hidden corners of the landscape that become so familiar and banal from daily viewing. It creates a little pocket of true augmented reality, which I am eager to have friends experience as well.

- STEPHANIE

The Games of Nonchalance truly moved me. I came to San Francisco alone, on vacation. Rejected by a love interest who lives in Oakland, lonely, poor, and depressed, I decided to go to the Jejunite Institute as a last ditch effort to give San Francisco one more shot. And how happy I am that I did. I connected with the city in ways that I would have never connected. ... [It] transcends just a game, it was a life changing experience.
